| The ordinary breakfast cereal, cooked a few minutes in a half-learted way, will in time weaken the stomach of anything short of an ox.

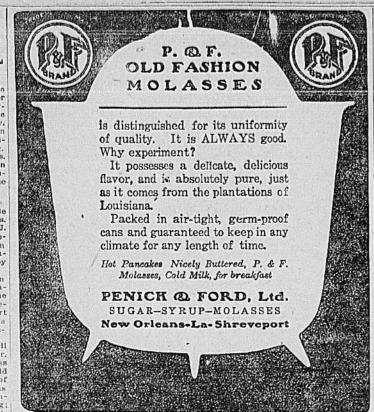

"Any preparation of wheat or oats put into water that is below the boiling point and cooked as mush is usually served, remains a pasty, indigestlibe mass. The cells are tough and unopened. In addition, the stomach of a person sensitively constituted refuses to do anything with the pasty mass. It is sent into the second stomach, the Duodenum, where, in consequence of the long time of the first process of digestion, is fermented and soured. As an eminent medical man pertinently states, the stomachs of half the people going about the streets are about in the condition of an old vinegar barrel.

"Intestinal dyspensia is the direct consequence of such feeding."

Knowledge of these facts and a wide experience in the preparation and use of cereals brought out the product which special reference to having the mitrogenous and starchy parts of the grains, of which the food is composed, perfectly and scientifically cooked at the factory, ready for immediate use, and, therefore, not subject to the manipulations of any cook, good or bad.

The starch of the grains, changed to grape-sugar, can be seen glistening on the little granules, and gives forth a deleate sweelish laste, very palatable.

Children and adults obtain fine results from the use of Grape-Nuts food. It is so perfectly adapted to the wants of the human body and so sasily digested that many cases are on record of nursing babes being fed very successfully on it. "There's a Reason."

Pretty Pink and White Infant Becomes Decided Brunette. "Tan" Won't Come Off.

NEW YORK, August 5 .- There is an unclaimed infant in the Westchester county poorhouse that any respectable person can have for the asking. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Quick, of Pleasantville, near White Plains, had it for nearly three weeks, and were happy in its possession. Then they suddenly decided that they didn't want it, and sent it to the poorhouse. They think they had good reasons for doing so.

Mrs. Quick found the infant on their place one morning, reposing peacefully under a tree. When she saw that no-body was about, and that apparently it body was about, and that apparently it had been abandoned, she caught it up in her arms and hugged it to her bosom, for she has no children of her own. It was a pretty babe, with a pink and white skin and big dark eyes. When her husband came home she showed it to him, and they decided to adopt the little foundling.

As the days passed Mrs. Quick was delighted with her new charge, but at the same time she was perpiexed at a curious change in its complexion. The pink and white were gradually but surely turning to a pronounced brunctle shade. She told her husband, and he laughed and said she kept the
